Rehabilitation of Offenders Act 1974 – PVG Scheme

The PVG Scheme was set up to help to ensure that those who have regular contact with children and protected adults through paid and unpaid work do not have a known history of harmful behaviour.

People who are not barred from working with children and protected adults may apply to become a member of the PVG Scheme. The PVG Scheme is administered by Disclosure Scotland and allows employers to satisfy themselves that an individual to whom they are offering regulated work is not barred from doing that type of regulated work. PVG Scheme members are continuously monitored for new vetting information and any information which comes to light which may indicate that they are unsuitable to do regulated work will lead to a consideration for listing, to be barred from the Scheme.

The law requires the following always to be disclosed –

- any unspent convictions, and
- any spent convictions contained in a list of offences that must always be disclosed.

Unspent Convictions

'Unspent' convictions are convictions that the Rehabilitation of Offenders Act 1974 determines not yet to have reached the point where the person is to be treated, for most purposes, as if they had not committed the offence. Some convictions because of their nature can never become spent, for example an offence that carried a sentence of imprisonment for more than 2 years and 6 months always remains unspent. The point at which a conviction becomes spent depends on the sentence received and not the type of offence.

Spent Convictions

The decision about whether or not a spent conviction should be disclosed will be determined by a two-stage process.

Two lists of offences have been developed - 'Offences which must always be disclosed' and 'Offences which are to be disclosed subject to rules'. A spent conviction for an offence which is not on either list will not usually be disclosed on a higher level disclosure.

If a conviction is spent and the offence is included on the 'Offences that must always be disclosed' list, it will always be disclosed no matter how old the conviction is.

If a conviction is spent and the offence is included on the 'Offences which are to be disclosed subject to rules' list ('the rules list'), consideration will be given to the age of the conviction and the age of the person at the time of conviction.

The following table relates to convictions on the 'rules list'

Age at Conviction	Period of disclosure	Treatment
18 years or older	15 years	No disclosure after 15 years
Younger than 18 years	7.5 years	No disclosure after 7.5 years

This means that a conviction on the 'rules list' will not be disclosed if it is over 15 years old for adults or 7.5 years for people aged under 18 years when convicted.
